January is traditionally the season of resolutions and fresh starts. It’s also the month I start to notice the light changing and the days getting longer, a hopeful sign in such a cold month.

But as I write this, the November elections are over and I am not feeling hopeful or energized for a fresh start. Instead, I’m feeling profoundly sad that we are still a house divided. The elections failed to bring clarity about how to resolve the most difficult issues of our day that affect every human being living in this country and on this planet.

I feel alienated from roughly half of my neighbors who see things so differently from me. It feels like a family that has been split apart by arguments over an inheritance. To add to my grief, so many of the arguments get mixed up with religion, revealing the deep divide there, too.

It’s been a roller coaster of a year with a deadly pandemic and bitter racial unrest on top of the elections, and no doubt we are exhausted and want to put it all behind us. We want to get back to the lives we had one year ago.

But we are in liminal space right now. There’s a change underway, and there’s no going back to what was, but we haven’t yet come through to a new place.

I take comfort from St. Paul’s advice to an ancient Christian community: No matter what’s going on around you, hold fast to the words that give life and be a light in the world [Phil 2:14-16]. Here are the words that give life to the FSC’s mission: In each of us lives the Sacred. We need each other. Paying attention to our spiritual needs leads to healing and peace. Each of us can contribute to the healing of all creation.

I hope this new year brings you to a place of light, healing and peace. Thank you for letting us accompany you on this path.

Peace and all good,

Audrey Lucier, FSC Director
Ready...Set... Art Dash

A FUNDRAISER FOR THE FRANCISCAN SPIRITUALITY CENTER

Our signature fundraiser, Art Dash, is an elegant yet fun evening to celebrate beauty, creativity and generosity. When you purchase a ticket, you not only support the Franciscan Spirituality Center’s mission, you support and recognize artists. All of the pieces available in the “dash” are created by local or regional artists. The artists are our neighbors, our friends and, now, part of our Franciscan family. We are so grateful to each and every one of them. Each is as generous as they can be. Some are very well known in art circles, and others are rising stars. Some donate multiple pieces each year, and many decline the small stipend we offer to help offset the cost of materials. We couldn’t do this event without them!

We enjoy seeing the variety of art mediums and each artist’s vision and style. We especially love seeing the connections and new friendships that are made as artists meet the winners of their works. Everyone who buys a $100 Dash ticket goes home with a piece of artwork – which piece depends on the luck of the draw. If you come with a spirit of openness and a willingness to be surprised and delighted, you are sure to have a blast. One of our favorite comments came from a guest who told us she didn’t end up with the piece she initially was hoping to get, but she realized she got the one she was meant to have. Another couple who attends each year told us they don’t “need” any more art for their own home, so they select pieces to give as gifts. Talk about paying it forward!

We hope you will join us! Last year’s event was postponed due to COVID-19, but we are hopeful for this spring. You can see a preview of the art and purchase tickets at www.FSCenter.org/artdash.

Overcoming Challenges with Grit & Grace

Our annual women’s conference celebrating resilience and faith will be presented in a virtual format. Though we won’t be able to provide lunch and snacks, we invite you to brew a cup or two of your favorite tea to sip as you listen to these inspirational women share their stories. (This time of year is typically when we would have our annual tea party event, but we’re adjusting as needed.)

Our keynote speaker will be Kao Kalia Yang, a Hmong-American writer, teacher and public speaker based in Minneapolis. Kalia will reflect on her spiritual journey into writing. She comes from a people who are new to what is written; a long time ago, the Hmong Chinese outlawed the Hmong written language. The women and girls tried to hide it in their clothing. Hmong women are celebrated around the world for their embroidery, but few know it was once a vessel for their stories, histories and lived experiences.

Kalia’s talk will address the questions: What does it mean to reclaim something that is no more, in an entirely new language, in a new land? and How does her own journey help situate herself in the pains and sorrows of others, and speak to their fears and faith?

ABOUT OUR KEYNOTE SPEAKER

KAO KALIA YANG • MINNEAPOLIS

Born in the refugee camps of Thailand to a family that escaped the genocide of the Secret War in Laos, Kalia came to America at the age of 6. She has earned degrees from Carleton College and Columbia University, and is the award-winning author of The Latehomecomer: A Hmong Family Memoir (Coffee House Press, 2008) and The Song Poet (Metropolitan Books, 2016), which has been adapted into an opera by the Minnesota Opera and will have its premiere in spring 2021.

She recently debuted her first children’s book, A Map Into the World (Carolrhoda Books), and a co-edited collection titled What God Is Honored Here?: Writings on Miscarriage and Infant Loss by and for Native Women and Women of Color (University of Minnesota Press). Her second children’s book, The Shared Room (University of Minnesota Press), and a collective memoir about refugee lives, Somewhere in the Unknown World (Metropolitan Books), were published in 2020.

In a video introduction available on the FSC’s YouTube Channel, Kalia shares part of her story in What God Is Honored Here?: Writings on Miscarriage and Infant Loss by and for Native Women and Women of Color, a poignant and heartbreakingly beautiful book that she also co-edited.

In reflecting on her own miscarriage, she writes: “In the days after, we went through our lives, a piece at a time, looking for the parts that could hold him, a ghost baby, a dream baby, a baby that was but never will be. I looked at autumn, my favorite season, as I had never seen it before, barren, full of bold promises waiting to die. Words made no more sense.”

The traumatic experiences of miscarriage and infant loss disproportionately affect women who often have been cast toward the margins in our country. What God Is Honored Here? offers an integral perspective on how culture, religion, spirit and body unite in the reproductive lives of women of color and Indigenous women as they bear witness to loss, search for what is not there and claim for themselves and others their fundamental humanity.

Lisa McCormick • Tomah

As the parent of a sex trafficking victim, Lisa has made it her life’s purpose to share her family’s story so others understand the dangers of trafficking and how easily our vulnerable children can get caught up in it. Lisa’s son, Jeffrey, was recruited into a sex trafficking ring out of Madison and exploited until his death, at age 17, in September 2016. Her faith and her desire to spare other families the tragic consequences of trafficking, drug addiction and bullying put her on the path of advocacy. She frequently speaks to schools, churches and other groups on how to recognize and help at-risk youth. She is a member of the Wisconsin Anti-Human Trafficking Advisory Council and is featured in the Wisconsin Department of Children and Families documentary film about youth sex trafficking in Wisconsin. Lisa walks alongside parents, grandparents, caregivers and all others, giving hope that they are not alone in this journey.

Sarah Johnson • Winona

Sarah is a licensed professional counselor and has more than 25 years of experience working in the prevention, youth development and counseling fields. She is the mental health director at the La Crosse Area Family YMCA and will be speaking as a human being who happens to be a mental health professional. Incorporating some mindfulness practices into her talk, Sarah will share about what led her to integrate mindfulness into her professional and personal life and the profound impact it has had on her quality of life.

Carolyn Bostrack • La Crosse Area

Carolyn is a fierce mother of three, corporate leader, author (F.I.E.R.C.E: Transform Your Life in the Face of Adversity, 5 Minutes at a Time!), motivational speaker and life and business strategist. Carolyn’s life story is one of personal and professional transformation. Carolyn has gone from standing in line at the Salvation Army to earning her doctorate. Her life’s purpose is to provide hope and inspire people to move from fear into focus. As she writes on her website, “While my past has a permanent stamp on my life, it doesn’t define me. My past trauma and abuse has positioned me to develop and leverage my grit so that I can serve other women who want to transform their lives, too.”

Women’s Christmas is rooted in a delightful Irish tradition. On the Feast of Epiphany, the celebration of the coming of the Wise Men to the Infant Jesus, Irish women left the care of their households to the men for a few hours so they could enjoy each other’s company away from their domestic responsibilities, especially after the busyness of Christmas preparations. At the FSC, we bring together the tradition of Women’s Christmas and the Feast of the Epiphany for this special program, offered this year through Zoom videoconferencing and with a theme of Tending Our Hearths and Gladdening Our Hearts. You are invited to leave behind your responsibilities to enjoy the companionship of other women gathered virtually at our home hearths for a time of ritual and reflection for light, healing and gladness. (See page 11 for more details.)

JANUARY 18 and FEBRUARY 15 •
Monday, 6:30 p.m.

Instructor: Mary Thompson
Investment: $10 per session

Registration deadlines: January 17/February 14

Artistic expression offers the opportunity for spiritual growth, transformation and healing. This monthly open watercolor studio offered through Zoom videoconferencing is a chance to play and learn new techniques without worrying about perfection or finished product. Meet new friends and practice listening to your heart as you paint. No art experience is necessary.

Supplies needed: watercolors, brushes, paper, pencil, paper towels and a kneaded eraser.

JANUARY: Enjoy an evening exploring the cosmos during this session. Thomas Keating said, “Silence is God’s first language. Everything else is a poor translation.” We will immerse ourselves into the silence and “luminous darkness,” and intuitively respond with color, movement and the powerful pull of the cosmos. Deep calls us into deep. (Psalm 42:8) If you have cotton medical gauze, please bring it to this session. If not, we’ll explore other ways to create texture.

FEBRUARY: Thomas Merton says that nature speaks to us in “the voice of the present moment,” which for him is a celebration—a festival. Come paint with us during an evening of celebration in which we will listen through art to the secret language of nature while also engaging in the practice of being fully present. Our focus will be on painting a landscape with a splash of red color where the cardinal shows up to join our winter festival.

Mary Thompson has a degree in fine arts and a master’s degree in education. She has delighted in the creative arts since her first box of crayons. Besides teaching art to all ages, Mary has supported the healing of women in recovery through the practice of art therapy.

TONGLEN: DEVELOPING COMPASSION DURING DIFFICULT TIMES (VIA ZOOM)

JANUARY 23 • Saturday, 9 a.m.-noon

Presenter: Sharon Lukert
Investment: $20

Registration deadline: January 21

During times of uncertainty, we as humans tend to contract in order to protect ourselves from pain and suffering. Paradoxically, this adds to our sense of disconnection and pain. Tonglen, which translates from Tibetan as “giving and receiving,” is a meditation practice of breathing in suffering and breathing out loving-kindness. This shifts our natural tendency of self-preservation and invites us to live openly and compassionately, even during the most difficult of times.

Pema Chödrön, a well-known Buddhist teacher and author, writes about Tonglen extensively. She has stated that Tonglen practices offers us “the opportunity to work with compassion, kindness, gentleness and generosity,” especially in a time of suffering and confusion. This morning retreat, offered through videoconferencing, will introduce you to the foundations of the practice and provide guided meditation periods, discussion, time for questions and extensive resources to prepare you to practice this ancient tradition with understanding and confidence.

Sharon Lukert has been a chaplain for 20 years and recently retired from Gundersen Health System. She has been a practicing Tibetan Buddhist studying under Pema Chödrön for more than 25 years. Sharon is a meditation instructor and facilitator for workshops, retreats and study groups focused on Buddhism, meditation, death and dying education, and bereavement support.

In the midst of pandemic life and an ever-changing political and social landscape, approaching life with an attitude of “thanks be to all things” can be mentally, emotionally and spiritually challenging – and doable. In this virtual workshop, we will delve into both spiritual and research-based approaches to gratitude to discover how gratitude practices can provide a solid-ground path of daily renewal, healing and forward movement during times of loss, transition and stress. This workshop experience will include guided visualizations, resilience-building gratitude practices, short writing exercises and discussion.

Biological sisters Emily Nagoski, Ph.D., and Amelia Nagoski, D.M.A., write about ending the cycle of feeling overwhelmed and exhausted. Join us for an evening to discuss the book and also to explore ways to personally engage in healthier spiritual, physical and emotional practices.

FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE: If you would like to attend a program but cannot manage the entire investment, please call Laurie Swan, FSC office manager, at 608-791-5279. We are committed to serving all on their spiritual journey and will hold your request in confidence.

This special event brings together the Irish tradition of Women’s Christmas, in which women left the care of their households to the men so they could enjoy each other’s company for a few hours, and the Feast of the Epiphany.

This year, we’ll gather through Zoom videoconferencing for an evening of renewal, ritual and reflection.

Our theme is Tending Our Hearths and Gladdening Our Hearts. We will begin by lighting our hearths (a candle) and enjoying a simple meal of soup. Next, with a cup of lemon balm tea by our side, we will reflect on the healing properties of lemon balm, described since the 16th century as an herb to gladden the heart. As we reflect and engage in ritual to heal the bruises of the past year and welcome our hopes for the new one, we will prepare a flower pot in which we plant lemon balm seeds. In doing so, we can each have our own pot of this heart-gladdening herb.

This virtual retreat will discuss how living with depression challenges common notions of faith, spirituality and religious teachings. During our time together, we will redefine faith in the context of depression. We will discover beliefs and spiritual practices that support and empower individuals who experience depression.

Participants will learn:
• religious challenges experienced by individuals living with depression
• seven religious teachings that undermine/invalidate the experience of depression
• three religious principles that support the journey of faith and depression
• spiritual practices to engage while living with depression

Monica A. Coleman, Ph.D., is professor of Africana Studies at the University of Delaware. She spent more than 10 years in graduate theological education at Claremont School of Theology and Lutheran School of Theology at Chicago. Answering her call to ministry at age 19, she brings her experiences in evangelical Christianity, Black church traditions, global ecumenical work and Indigenous spirituality to her discussions of religion.

She is the author or editor of six books and several articles that focus on the role of faith in addressing critical social and philosophical issues. Her memoir, Bipolar Faith, shares her lifelong dance with trauma and depression, and how she discovers a new and liberating vision of God. Her book Making a Way Out of No Way is required reading at leading theological schools around the country.

She speaks widely on navigating change, religious diversity, mental wellness and surviving sexual and domestic violence.

Jean Pagliaro, FSC program and retreat coordinator, reflects on her first encounter with Monica Coleman:

In my final year of seminary, I enrolled in a course called Process Theology, which was described as a “capstone” course to systematic theology. I previously survived two systematic theology courses, both of which were the most challenging classes I had ever taken. Understandably, I was nervous about this class and the professor, Dr. Monica Coleman. While I don’t remember all the topics we covered over the course of the semester, I remember immediately being put at ease by her relaxed, engaging presence. I also remember her passion and energy around topics such as mental health, social justice and womanist theology.

The one assignment that I still remember was based on Rainer Maria Rilke’s Letters to a Young Poet, in which Rilke wrote a series of profound responses to a young poet on surviving as a sensitive soul in a harsh world. Our task was to change that into Letters to a Young Seminarian and write our own advice for students just entering seminary. While the course was “heady” just by means of its topic, Dr. Coleman was able to make it very relatable, fun and relevant to everyday life.

I am so excited to welcome Monica Coleman to the FSC and for her to share her story and offer her insights on mental health and spirituality. I know the day will be engaging, relevant and meaningful.
New scholarship named for Sister Joan

In the spirit of St. Francis and St. Clare, we honor and respect everyone in their search for spiritual healing, growth and renewal, and will not turn anyone away because of inability to pay. We are pleased to announce a new scholarship fund to help us fulfill this mission.

This new fund is named in honor of Joan Weisenbeck, FSPA, and is available to anyone who needs financial assistance to attend our Spiritual Direction Preparation Program or receive spiritual direction from one of the FSC spiritual directors. The fund was established through a financial gift from Marlene Weisenbeck, FSPA, and Celesta Day, FSPA, and was given on the occasion of Sister Joan's birthday.

Sisters Marlene and Celesta shared this statement:
“We established this scholarship in Sister Joan’s name to honor her ministry at the Franciscan Spirituality Center for more than two decades, both as staff member and board member. Her creative energy in promoting the Franciscan heritage of the Center, her steadfast accompaniment of people on their spiritual journeys, and her beautiful prayer forms have assisted countless people in finding clarity on the path of life. We hope others will want to contribute to this scholarship fund in her name so that her legacy of loving service will be sustained into the future.”

Sister Joan left big shoes to fill when she retired from the FSC, but she continues to bless our ministry through her dedicated service on our board of directors. Her gentle and kind manner, her deep wisdom and her attention to quality and beauty in all things are just a few of the reasons we love working with her.

In thanking Sisters Marlene and Celesta, FSC Director Audrey Lucier wrote:
“This is a wonderful gift in honor of someone who has played such a key role in the history of the FSC. As retreat coordinator and spiritual director, Sister Joan profoundly shaped how we provide spiritual direction at the FSC, especially group spiritual direction, and the formation of new spiritual directors in SDPP. She mentored many of us in the art of gracious hospitality and a beautiful environment, and she led many outstanding programs and retreats here. I especially think of her role in the iconography retreats, which have continued here for so many years. She continues to shape our mission through her role as secretary-treasurer of our FSC Board.”

If you would like to request a scholarship, please call 608-791-5295 and ask to speak to our office manager, Laurie Swan.
